CRISIS OVER MEXICO ENDS

Scott and Obregon Said to Have Reached an Agreement

JOIN IN BANDIT HUNT

Conditions Are Improving—Americans Will Aid in Restoring Confidence in Country

El Paso, May 4.—American aid in rehabilitating Mexico is expected to follow ratification of the "El Paso peace pact."

War Minister Obregon and Chief of Staff Scott, were silent today awaiting advices from their respective governments, but developments more than military matters were treated in Tuesday's momentous 12-hour conference.

Authorities here believed the official statement will show that chief among the matters agreed upon is the gradual retirement of the American punitive expedition from Mexico—the movement expected to extend over sixty days.

El Paso, Texas, May 4—Gen. Gabriel Gavira, military commander of Juarez, sent a message yesterday afternoon to all his commanders in the field informing them that the conference between General Obregon and General Scott was progressing in a way satisfactory to the Constitutionalist cause and that he believed he would be able in a short time to announce its conclusion in an amicable manner, satisfactory to both governments and the people thereof.

The tentative agreement, said to have been reached between Major-General Scott and General Obregon was generally understood to provide for a gradual retirement of the American forces in Mexico.

Mexico City, May 4—Gen Carranza received a report from Gen. Obregon late last night covering the tentative agreement between himself and Gen. Scott. Obregon asks Carranza to sanction the proposed agreement, and it is expected here that the first chief will do so at once. Ratification by the United States government also is confidently expected. Government officials here predict that the American troops will be out of Mexico within 30 days.

A text of the agreement drawn up by Gens. Obregon and Scott, was received here.

It contains the following paragraphs:

1. The American troops are to advance no farther south than a certain point to be agreed upon.

2. The withdrawal of the American troops is to commence as soon as de facto forces take up Villa pursuit

3. The flanks of the retiring army will be permitted to spread out to certain agreed distances east and west and to clean up the country as they fall back.

4. The last American troops are to be out of Mexico on an agreed date.

5. The Mexican government is to station garrisons along the border—the number of troops so stationed to be agreed upon—so as to avoid any possibility of a recurrence of the Columbus incident.

6. The pursuit of Villa by constitutionalists is to continue until he shall have been captured or killed.

The correspondent of the International News Service is in a position to state that the Carranza government is agreeable to the foregoing which is now being considered by the representatives of Mexico and the the United States.

EXCITING RUNAWAY

Horse Attached to a Buggy Collides With Automobile and Street Car

An exciting runaway took place last night at 9:30 o'clock when a horse attached to a buggy, owned by R. M. Heth, of Oakley Farm, Fairfax County, made a wild dash up south Alfred street and down King street. The horse had wandered from the farm, six miles below Alexandria and became frightened on Alfred street and commenced to run.

Turning into King street, the run down the street was made in record time, and pedestrians and vehicles were missed by narrow margins. At times the horse mounted the sidewalks forcing the people to run into houses. Between Washington and St. Asaph street the vehicle collided with an automobile and at King and Royal ran into a street car.

The journey was finally ended just below Royal street where a collision took place with a telegraph pole. The horse was uninjured but the vehicle was a total wreck.

LEADERS SHOT TO DEATH

Last Act of the Drama of "Easter Republic" in Ireland

London, May 4—As the sun rose over the high grim walls of the Tower of London yesterday, it witnessed, down in the historic execution court, the last act of the drama of the "Easter republic of Ireland," played to the tune of rifle bullets from four successive firing squads that snuffed out the lives of the four chief rebel leaders, who, eight days ago, had raised the curtain to let rebellion play its piece of terrorism unconfined.

Patrick H. Pearse, the "provisional president of Ireland;" James Connolly, "commander and general of the Irish republican army" Thomas J. Clark and Thomas MacDonagh, court martialed and convicted of treason, were shot to death to pay the penalty of their Easter dream.

In a cell not far away from the scene of the execution sat Sir Roger Casement, a prisoner in the Tower awaiting trial for treason. The rifle shots could be plainly heard in the solitary prison room of the traitor knight who was arrested a few days before the rebellion broke out, while attempting to land arms from a German auxiliary on the Irish coast.

Shortly before Premier Asquith, in opening the morning's session of Parliament, had announced the fate of the four Sinn Fein leaders, Augustin Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland ,handed in his resignation.

Premier Asquith promptly accepted it. Birrell explained he was laying down his office upon having been assured that the insurrection had been quelled.

POLICE BOARD USURPERS

Portsmouth, Va., May 4—City Attorney Happer has given an opinion to Mayor Hope, in response to the latter's request, in which he holds that the board of police commissioners went beyond its rights when it took from Major Broughton, chief of the police department, the power to assign men of the police department to certain duties.

A couple of months ago the police commissioners took virtually the entire management of the police department into its own hands, and rearranged the assignment of the force.

Mayor Hope opposed the action, and recently asked the city attorney for an opinion as to the rights of the police commissioners to take the course they did.

City Attorney Happer holds in effect that the police comissioners are a legislative body, and the chief of police is the executive officer of the commissioners. The board can not deprive him of the power necessary to carry out the rules and regulations of the police department, and the assignment of the police force to duty is held to belong to the chief of police exclusively. He is the proper person to carry into effect the regulations and orders of the police commission. The commission has no right to carry its orders into effect itself.

The Common Council of Petersburg on Tuesday night suspended the rules and unanimously voted an appropriation of $500 to A. P. Hill, Camp of Confederate Veterans to defray the expenses of the members of the camp in attending the reunion at Birmingham, Ala.

Steps Taken to Negotiate With Westinghouse Company Officials—Other Peace Plans

Pittsburgh, May 4—Martial law practically prevailed in East Pittsburgh and Braddock last night. Detachments of the Pennsylvania National Guard patroled the streets in the strike zones, but no disorder was reported. Small groups of strikers, gathered in small groups, but the order to keep moving was rigidly enforced.

The plants of the American Steel and Wire Company and the Edgar Thompson Works of the Carnegie Steel Company resumed operations last night, with large forces of coal and iron police stationed just inside the gates ready for any emergency

Three of the four troops of cavalry ordered out for strike duty Tuesday night by Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh have already arrived.

Burgess W. Blair Miller, of North Braddock, yesterday morning discharged all but one member of the police force of the borough, consisting of nine men, because of their refusad Tuesday to attempt to quell the riot at the Edgar Thompson Work The only man retained was home sick at the time of the trouble.

While the soldiers were arriving yesterday strike leaders quietly summoned the English-speaking strikers to a conference to discuss plans for the opening of peace negotiations with the officials of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company The strikers were addressed by a number of men interested in a speedy adjustment. A committee was appointed to confer with Patrick Gilday, chief of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration, with a view of having him arrange a meeting with President E. M. Herr of the electric plant.

Steps looking to the adjustment of wage differences in the McKees Rocks district were also taken yesterday. Eight hundred striking repair men and laborers of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad appointed a committee to confer with railroad officials.

Strikers from the Cass avenue plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company likewise decided to name a committee to take up differences with the company.

Chicago, May 4—Several hundred striking employes o fthe International Harvester Company yesterday stormed the tractor plant. A riot call was turned in and the police quickly drove the strikers back. Two men were reported injured.

police, about 500 or 600 men, armed with sticks and stones, stormed the plant. A policeman held them away from the entrance with his revolver until reserves arrived. The damage done to the plant was light.

An effort upon the part of the State Board of Arbitration to end the strike is under way. About 10,000 employes from the Deering and McCormick plants of the company are out.

New York, May 4.—Sixty thousand cloak and suitmakers now on strike sent their demands to the manufacturers last night. They ask for a forty-eight-hour week ten legal holidays annually, and seventy-five cents an hour for each operator, tailor and shirtwaker. These are the chief demands. Others are that overtime work shall be paid for at from 60 to 75 cents an hour, and that all contractors hired by the manufacturers shall be recognized by the union.

WINE AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Resolution Criticising President Wilson Coldly Received by Methodist Conference.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 4—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church resumed its session yesterday.

Criticism of President Wilson for providing wine for guests at banquets at the White House was expressed in a resolution submitted to the general conference, by Rev. James W. Anderson, of Oregon, Mo.

The resolution was coldly received by the 800 delegates, and was referred to the committee on temperance. Although the resolution was offered by Dr. Anderson as an individual, the entire Missouri delegation supported the action.

The resolution in part follow:

"Whereas, it has been reported through the public press that our President, the Hon. Woodrow Wilson, has restored the use of intoxicating liquors on State occasions at White House functions, therefore,

"Be it resolved by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that we hereby express to the Hon. Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, our keen disappointment and regret for said action, especially at a time when the rulers of other nations have taken such advanced position with reference to intoxicating liquors and when there is such widespread growing sentiment in our land in favor of total abatinence from all alcoholic beverages; and we, the delegates, representatives of more than four million members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, hereby appeal to the President as a Christian gentleman, to abolish the wine cup from all functions over which he has control, thereby setting a worthy example and keeping pace with the forward movements and Christian sentiment of the day. And, furthermore, as the liquor beverage traffic has its national organization, pays government revenue, so that for these and other reasons it is a national issue we must urgently request the President to give his endorsement and hearty support to the pending measures looking toward nation-wide prohibition of the liquor beverage traffic."

MIRACLES DISCUSSED.

Annual Congress of Episcopal Church Opens in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., May 4.—"The miraculous as essential to the gospel," was the topic at the opening session of the third annual congress of the Episcopal Church in the United States here last night. The principal point of discussion was whether miracles are an essential and integral part of the Christian religion, Several definitions of a miracle, similar in construction, but different in the development they received, were presented by the various speakers, The session was opened by Bishop A. M. Randolph, of the diocese of Southern Virginia, who asked the congress to "pray for the spirit of unity."

The essayist last night was Rev. George C. Foley, D. D., of the Philadelphia Divinity School, He said that miracles were simply the revelation of the divine will, and the natural action of powers of a spiritual nature.

Dr. Foakes-Jackson, dean of Jesus College, Cambridge, followed Dr. Foley, in place of Rev. Kirsopp Lake, of the Harvard Divinity School, who was unable to attend on account of illness in his family. Dr. Jackson, spoke of the three great miracles as being the virgin birth of Jesus, the feeding of the 5,000 and the resurrection of Jesus.

Prof. W. M. Urban, of the faculty of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., was followed by a number of volunteer speakers. Professor Urban said that the continuance of the life of Christianity seemed to be independent of signs and wonders and that even the miracles of the gospel seemed to be sinking in more and more into the background in spiritual teachings.

CASEMENT MAY ESCAPE DEATH

If Not Found Insane, Sir Roger Will Be Hanged For Treason

Rank and File of Irish Rebels Will Be Dealt With Leniently—Redmond Makes Plea

London, May 4.— Sir Roger Casement will be brought to trial in a few days on the charge of high treason, it is announced following the execution of rebel leaders yesterday morning.

Baron Reading lord chief justice of England will preside. Unless Sir Roger escapes death sentence because he is found to be insane he will be hanged with a silken rope—a "privilege" accorded condemned members of the nobility by ancient custom.

The rank and file of the Irish rebels will be deat with leniently, it is stated.

Sir Edward Carson, Ulster leader, and John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalists, have joined in an appeal to the government for mercy. It is believed the majorit yof the Sinn Feiners will be given light sentences and that a few will be deported.

A Dublin dispatch to the Evening News today reports that in the Dublin hospitals alone the bodies of 188 victims of the seven days' rebellion have been counted. These include sixty-six soldiers and 122 rebels and civilians. The Dublin morgue holds about 300 more bodies, some of them mangled beyond recognition.

Mr. Redmond said that the whole business in Ireland had been to him a misery and a heartbreak. He paid warm tribute to Mr. Birrell. He felt that he himself had incurred some of the blame which Mr. Birrell had laid at his own door. The Nationalist leader had concurred in the view that the danger of an outbreak was not a real one, and perhaps what he had said in conversation might have influenced Mr. Birrell.

While approving the vigorous quelling of the rebellion, Mr. Redmond begged the government not to show undue hardness to "the great mass of unfortunate dupes involved."

UNSIGHTLY GUTTERS

Several in Different Parts of Alexandria Need Immediate Attention

An old and well-known resident today called the attention of a representative of the Gazette to the condition of gutters in certain places in the northwestern section of the city which are breeding places for mosquitoes, as well as eyesores to passersby. The resident did not make his statement in the way of a complaint, remarking that the city doubtless had much upon its hands at present .His words were more in the nature of a suggestion..

Attention has from time to time been called to foul gutters and cess pools in different quarters of the city, and the police have recently been performing their yearly duties of making house-to house inspection of the premises of residents. But if all Alexandrians clean up their yards and pools of stagnant water are allowed in the streets the work of placing the city in a sanitary condition will prove to be a slow process.

Thousands of strangers visit Alexandria during the summer and early fall. Many of such take special pains to scan everything of an unsanitary and untidy nature, and all should desire that our city pass inspection, not only in summer but at all times.

Recently the people of Rosemont sent protests to Council against the accumulations in a lot covering over a square opposite Spring Park tion. Their complaint is just, and and steps should be taken towards eliminating this eyesore.

All citizens can vie in the good work of placing the city in a sanitary and sightly condition. It is an ancient injunction, "Let every one keep his own door step and gutter clean". Some, however, thoughtlessly suppose that when once refuse is moved from their premises to the gutters that is an end of their obligations. Every occupier of a house has jurisdiction as far as the centre of the street in front of their premises. In cases which come before the Police Court, the result of disorders or annoyances, people often fortify themselves behind this right. In cases of nuisances before their houses, however, they renounce jurisdiction. All should aid in keeping gutters in a proper condition. When pavements are swept it would require but little further exertion to sweep out the gutters.

Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett and her guest, Mrs. Lucy Hill, of San Francisco, left last night for Norfolk.

COMPLAINT OF IRISH REBELS.

Leaders in the recent revolt in Dublin allege that their leaders misled them. They say they had no idea that an Irish republic was to be proclaimed. They further say that the head centres of the movement told them an invasion was expected May 2, and they were told it was necessary for them to hold positions until the Germans could land.

Robert Emmett was probably as much disappointed as his sympathizers. He had every reason to suppose that when he precipitated a movement for liberty in Ireland thousands would rise up to aid in throwing off the British yoke. They failed, however, to materialize, and at the crisis in the revolt, Emmett's followers numbered about twenty.

It is the same old story—the participants in the recent movement did not know that overt acts were contemplated, and it affords another warning against embarking in any questionable movement until the cost is counted. Jack Sheppard, desperate character as he was, had no idea "Blueskin" intended to stab to death Mrs. Wood, his former mistress, when they invaded her house at night. Jack was horrified at the act.

A chapter in the Newgate Calendar tells a sad story. A young man with a wife and a baby moved into a certain part of Ireland where he had rented a small piece of land. After he had settled down several of his neighbors sought his acquaintance and told him they were members of a society which had been organized for the benefit of the smaller class of farmers, and requested permission to meet at his house that night. He assented, and after he had listened to their discussions he became alarmed, as he realized they were a band of desperadoes, who were ready to use gun, knife, or torch in order to wreak vengeance upon those they regarded as inimical to their interests. After they had adjourned the young man told them he had not previously understood the purposes of the organization and he had no intention of joining it. He further told them he could not allow them to meet at his house again, although he assured the band he would say nothing concerning what he had heard. The men went away with ominous looks upon their faces, and late the next night the young man was awakened by finding his house burning. A crowd surrounded the building and fired at the windows when the farmer appeared, and he died defending his home. His wife, frantic with fear, appeared at a window, but it was impossible for her to get through the flames. In her desperation she picked up her baby and threw it a safe distance beyond the fire, when a brutal member of the mob picked up the infant and threw it into the flames.

Had Mrs. Surratt known she was harboring men bent upon assassination, John Wilkes Booth and his coadjutors would not have obtained entertainment at her home. She may have believed them to be would-be abductors. This was all the offense of this unfortunate woman, and she was hanged nearly half a century ago, for having allowed the conspirators to enter her house.

The biblical injunction —"Go not in the way of bad men, nor cast your lot with them"—is a timely warning to all.

BLAMES THE NEWSPAPERS.

The Richmond Journal suggests that the newspapers are responsible for Theodore Roosevelt's continuous appearance before the public. The Journal says that editors and newspaper publishers in this country are supposed to be men of some intelligence and mental balance, but for several months now they have allowed themselves to be used for the advertising and advancement of a man whose sole stock in trade is words. Theodore Roosevlt with the press of the United States at his command is capable of becoming a menace; left to himself he is little more than a sputtering firecracker. Roosevelt should be ignored by the reputable press so that, like a toy balloon, he may collapse.

This indictment is just. Should the newspapers ignore the former President he would soon be forgotten in this busy age. But, unfortunately, every thing he utters is rushed into print, and that is what the colonel desires.

After over half a century's observation in a newspaper office, the writer could publish enough reminiscences in connection with the above to fill every column of the Gazette. While the small fry of humanity are never better pleased than when they find their names in print, others of more notoriety are equally enthused when they find themselves subjects of comment in papers. Some are totally indifferent as to the manner in which their names are printed, all they want is notoriety.

A solemn-looking man (a stranger) once approached a knight of the quill in this city and said he was convinced he was a natural grandson of George Washington. The newspaper man called his attention to the fact that should his statement prove true it would be a reflection upon his grandmother. The stranger was not averse to casting such an insinuation upon his progenitress in order to get his name into print.

A would-be politician on one occasion upbraided an attache of this paper because, as he alleged his name seldom appeared in print in connection with the boiling of the political pot in his neighborhood. The newspaper man told him his name would be published when it was in order. The man finally said: "I do not care what you say concerning me. You may apply a certain epithet if you choose. "The epithet was one no good man deserves and what no brave man would take.

Many years ago a tramp preacher, self ordained, took up his abode in this city. He met the writer on the street and requested him to call the attention of the public to the fact that he was in town. He said further: "I haven't the slightest objection to anything you may say concerning me. You can use any language you please, and attack me as violently as you can."

It may be unnecessary to state that in many cases articles commendatory of certain individuals are written by themselves. This is often done by people in honorable positions as well as by others who attempt to scale the steep hill of fame.

In a certain city not long ago a would-be great man became offended with the reporters of the papers of the place. He made bitter attacks upon the knights of the quill, supposing they would retort, which he wanted them to do. The reporters met later, when a dean of the party gave the following sensible advice: "Let that man severely alone. Never mention his name in future, and in a short time he will have passed into a total eclipse." His advice was heeded, and it was not long before the ambitious individual made overtures for peace. The reporters, however, adhered to their determination, and the man was finally forgotten in the community in which he thirsted for prominence.

Should Roosevelt be let alone, he would eventually flicker and go out

THIS COUNTRY FOR PEACE.

This country is for peace, but it does not fear war. This country will go to great lengths to keep at peace with the world, but it will not surrender the principles upon which it is founded, or sacrifice the ideals that have been coincident with its growth and prosperity.

Our record for peace is a proud one, and our present aatitude is well presented by an exchange which says:

The history of the United States is a story of peace, broken at long intervals only by conflict in behalf of justice and right, and with orderly quiet quickly restored. From the time white men first came to America, their efforts have been to establish concord of action and tranquility of life. To escape from the turmoil and feuds of Europe and build in a new world a nation life whose ideal would be liberty and equality for all mankind, and whose citizens should be secured in rights and privileges denied them in Europe was the ambition of the courageous, thoughtful men who brought the older civilization to this continent and made it over into the new. Since the formation of our government its only wars have been defensive and to maintain the highest concept of human freedom.

The genius of our country and the spirit of our people are both opposed to conquest as inimical to liberty. Our relations with the world have been established and upheld by a dignified insistence upon right as supported by reason. We have never tried to impose our views on a neighbor or a contemporary except with the sanction of justice in its best application. For almost a century and a half of national existence the United States has given to the world the finest example it has ever had of a self-governed people. Underneath all the so-called national hysteria lies a broad and deep base of devotion to a concept of freedom that will make the extreme sacrifice for its preservation.

The diplomat or ruler who does not recognize this make a serious blunder. The peple of the United States are united on a record of peace, but will maintain its institutions at any cost.

IRISH EXECUTIONS

(Baltimore American)

Swift justice has been meted out to the ringleaders in the so-called Irish revolution. The execution of Pearse and his associates in fomenting the revolt that caused the death of many innocent persons as well as hundreds of the misled rebels is one of the tragic incidents of a war whose ramifications have been varied and beyond all human calculation in advance. The deluded scholar, bent upon the resuscitation of Gaelic as the language of the island and the restoration of its institutions and the revivification of its past glory, following the mirage of his unbalanced mentality that ideals cannot be materialized by gunpowder without an accounting.

The story of the Irish rebellion will long be told as one of the most remarkable and unbalanced outbreaks that have ever occurred in the history of social revolutions in England and its dependencies. There will stand out no more interesting episode of this nature for the historian of a hundred or two hundred years hence than the strange Dublin outbreak with its vast harvest of disaster and death.

The flattening deduction for England from the revolt is the firm adherance of the masses of the Irish to the empire and inability of any disaffected element to break the imperial tie. The fiasco really reacts to the credit of the empire, revealing the fidelity of the Irish people. It will do the island no political harm.

The government's military bill for immediate general compulsion passed its first reading in the British house of commons, yesterday. Its passage was loudly cheered. The debate revealed no very deadly opposition to the compulsion bill. The only interesting point was the suggestion by Col. Craig, that Ireland should be included.

According to a special correspondent of the New York World, who has been visiting the front, Great Britain has 1,500,000 men in France and Flanders. She is holding 150 miles of trenches. There are ample reserves of men and munitions, complete co-operation with the French high command and a dogged determination to win. Britain, says this correspondent, at last is "doing her bit."

A white man attacked Miss Pauline Mudd, a 20 year old teacher in the East Hyattsville, Md., public school, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, while on her way home from school along the Hyattsville road. The man, who is said to be known to Miss Muddy by sight, stepped from the woods at a lonely part of the road, according to county officers, and attempted to drag her from the path. He was frightened away by the girl's screams.

The formula of Dr. Louis Enricht's substitute for gasoline, which costs a cent and a half a gallon to manufacture, was bought yesterday by the Maxim Munition Corporation of New York. The price was reported to be $2,000,000. While neitherthe inventor nor officials of the corporation would say what price was paid for the green fluid that turns water into engine fuel, it was said that Dr. Enricht received $1,000,000 in cash and 100,000 shares of stock in the Maxim Munitions Corporation. This stock was quoted at $10.50 a share yesterday.

For twenty minutes Myrtle Barton lay dead in a receiving hospital in Detroit, Mich., yesterday dead as far as science could determine. Then by the aid of the lung motor, life came back to her. Tuesday night she drank an ounce or more of poison in her room and was discovered some time later silent and with the faint pulse of those who are passing away, and before the ambulance arrived, even that faint flutter was gone. "Where were you for those twenty minutes?" she was asked. "I don't know, floating away— somewhere," she answered.

RIOTS IN GERMANY

Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist Leader, Arrested in Berlin.

Berlin, May 4.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, was arrested on May 1, in connection with a May Day demonstration in Berlin.

Eight other persons were arrested at the time of the demonstration which occurred in Potsdam Square.

As Dr. Liebknecht is a soldier an investigation of his conduct by a military tribunal was ordered. This tribunal caused his arrest. He wore civilian clothes when apprehended.

London, May 4.—"Serious trouble is reported to have occurred in Berlin and elsewhere in Germany on May day," says the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company. "Vast crowds, composed for the most part of women of the laboring classes, clamored for peace. The crowds were dispersed by the police and many persons were arrested. Two women were wounded at Chemnitz, Saxony."

A Geneva telegram to the Central News says:

"During food riots at Leipsic the police killed three persons and wounded 70. In riots in Berlin it is reported 25 persons were killed and 200 wounded."

Unofficial dispatches from English correspondents in Holland and Switzerland say the May Day demonstration in Berlin assumed serious proportions. One dispatch gives a report that p5 persons were killed and 200 wounded. Similar reports in the past have been characterized in Berlin as false. Dr. Liebknecht has much opposition by his severe criticism in the Reichstag of the German government and recently was expelled from the Socialist party in the Reichstag.
